

Creating a Professional Doctoral Portfolio Using Free Online Software

Tuesday, October 13th: Noon - 1:30
Location: 228B Schine Student
Center

Curriculum Vita

Teaching Responsibilities

Publications

Philosophy

This presentation will discuss the challenges and advantages of online portfolios, model the possibilities of creating an online professional portfolio, and offer practical tips for getting started.

Kristen Munger & Bryan Ripley Crandall are Ph.D. students in Reading & Language Arts in the School of Education. They met during their coursework and quickly learned the importance of collaboration and academic support in the Graduate School process. Using free online space, each created a portfolio to showcase their academic and professional work while at Syracuse University and with SOLER: (Student Organization of Literacy Educators & Researchers). They will present their online graduate school portfolios and share their experience.

